Thurlow Weed Talks.

The oldest and "toughest" Republican living says of the Syracuse convention: "The Democrats have made a very strong ticket."

In conversation with the venerable Mr. Thurlow Weed, who unquestionably, in his day, has been the shrewdest politician this country has ever known, he gave the Republicans little cheer in the approaching State election in New York. The venerable gentleman was found in his study, looking apparently in better health than for many months. When asked what he thought of the Democratic nominations at Syracuse he replied substantially as follows:

"I think the Democrats have made a very strong ticket, and that it will take a most vigorous canvass on the part of the Republicans to beat it. I think so for two reasons:

"First—The nomination of Mayor Cleveland for governor was made with more unanimity than was expected.

Second—He is a man against whom nothing can be said, who needs to make no explanations, whose candidacy will excite no prejudices and engender no divisions in his party, and whose personal character is above reproach.

For this reason, I say, he will be a very formidable antagonist for the Republicans to encounter. His nomination is certainly stronger, in my opinion, than General Slocum's would be, whose connection with the Brooklyn bridge could not fail to injure him."

"That Brooklyn bridge," Mr. Weed remarked, incidentally, "is a bad job."

Mr. Weed said he thought well of the remainder of the ticket, and reiterated his previous remark that the Republicans would have to fight hard to defeat it. If anybody wants anything more cheerful than this he will have to wait till the morning after the election.

GAZING FOR MONEY.

A Youth's Interest in a Shop Window.

New York Sun.

A young man stood silent on Broadway yesterday. He was good looking and neatly dressed. He appeared to be very much absorbed in contemplating some object across the street. He was so oblivious of his own personality that when he was jostled by some one of the passing throng he paid not the least attention to it. A push, a thrust in the ribs produced, seemingly, no response in his sensibilities. He stood long and patiently, turning his eyes neither to the right nor to the left.

At length the fixity of his attitude and gaze attracted the attention of a plasterer who was passing. The plasterer stopped short and followed with his eyes the gaze of a young man. A boy, observing the youth and plasterer starting across the street, joined them. Then came a washwoman, then a bank clerk, then a man of leisure, then two negro swells, and finally a sizable crowd of a promiscuous nature was collected, all looking in silent admiration at two men in an opposite window, who were engaged, one in swinging Indian clubs, one in pulling away at a patent chest expander. Meanwhile the original gazer had shifted his position. The reporter said:

"How much do you get an hour?"

The young man started. "Well, you see," he said, "the art of drawing a crowd is a peculiar one. I get twenty-five cents an hour for the use of my eyes. I haven't read Mark Twain for nothing."

Then he resumed his twenty-five cents an hour interest in the window across the street, and looked proud in the consciousness of being proficient in his art.

A Victory For The Guiteau Crowd.

Cincinnati Commercial: The victory at Saratoga is that of the power of the administration, of the machine, of money and the majority of the New York newspapers over the conscience and intelligence of the mass of the Republicans of New York.

Mysteriously Missing Ships.

Glasgow Herald.

What becomes of our missing ships? Time after time we learn that Board of Trade Courts find it impossible to answer this question. Many vessels that leave our ports apparently in a most seaworthy condition are never more seen or heard of, and no amount of inquiry serves to throw any light on the cause of their disappearance. Like the Hermes, whose loss formed the subject of an investigation at Greenock last week, they may start with every prospect of a fair and prosperous voyage, with what is thought to be a safe cargo, properly stowed, and under the charge of a captain and a crew equal to any emergency. And yet with all these advantages, the lamentable fact remains that many share the fate of the Hermes, simply vanishing, and so helping to increase the melancholy record of missing ships. A valuable abstract which has just been prepared of the returns issued by the Bureau Veritas brings out some interesting statistics connected with this record. It shows that the total number of sailing vessels and steamers lost throughout the world during the last two years reaches some three thousand five hundred, and that of these more than three hundred were reported as missing. Of all the maritime disasters, therefore, that occur it is found impossible to account with any degree of accuracy, for at least one-tenth of them. Guesses on the subject may, of course, be made. There is always the chance of collision to be taken into consideration, or of some flaw in the structure of machinery which, though it escapes the vigilance of their surveyors, may unfit the ship to meet the usual perils of the deep. There is also the probability that some of the vessels may have been able to sneak away in an improper condition—perhaps overloaded and with an insufficiency of freeboard.

Sweet Girls' Names.

Vicksburg Herald.

The modern prevalence of the soft African terminations to girls' names is an interesting subject. In the society department of the Kansas City Sunday Times, of the 10th, we notice these sweet names: Hattie, Effie, Ella, Lou, Lizzie, Ida, May, Mamie, Maggie, Fannie, Atta, Jennie, Annie, Paulina, Adda, Alma, Mollie, Mollie, Mattie, Flora, Flo, Allie, Rosa, Nellie, Carrie, Minnie, Mimi, Marie, Sallie, Love, Linda, Dora, Daisy, Coatie, Lola, Katie, Lulu, Doray, Birdie, Eva, Kittie, Lillie, Jessie. Some of these are often repeated, as if the much strained invention of names in "ie" and other soft terminals were running out.

One of the old veterans of Wall street was the other day giving some fatherly advice to one of his clerks, about to be married, and in closing his sermon said:

"Directly after the ceremony there will be a banquet of course. When your wife turns over her plate she will find a check for $50,000 under it."

"Do you really think so?"

"Oh, I know it. That's the prevailing style nowadays. The check will be passed around and finally given to you to pocket."

"And next day I will draw the money on it?"

"Oh no you won't."

"Why not?"

"Because there won't be any to draw. Don't make a dolt of yourself by rushing to the bank."

"But I thought—"

"No matter what you thought. Save the check to frame and hang up. When I was married thirty years ago my wife found one under her plate. I've got it yet. I thought too much of her father to mortify his feelings, and I know he has always respected me for it. That's all my son. If you run short on your bridal tour telegraph me."—Wall Street News.

What Attracted the Sharks?

Savannah News.

Captain Anderson of the Swedish bark Herald, which arrived at Tybee on Tues- day night, reports that on September 14th, in longitude 73 deg., latitude 30 deg., he passed the derelict schooner, William G. Moseley. Only the deck and about three feet of planking were left, with the cabin and bowsprit and a small piece of the fore- mast and capstan forward. Captain An- derson states that there was a school of sharks around the wreck. He endeavored to approach the wreck to ascertain if there were any bodies about, but the sharks were clustered so thick about the vessel that he found it necessary to beat them off with oars and was fearful that they would swim under his vessel and occasion serious trouble, even if they did not upset her. They were very vicious, and the print of their teeth is seen on his oars.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Dwight B. Neal and wife, formerly of this city, but now residents of Falls City, Nebraska, are visiting friends and relatives in this vicinity.

Mr. L. W. Robertson and wife have returned from their trip to the White Mountains.

Says the Vanceburg Courier:

Mason B. Parker died here on Monday evening last, at half past five o'clock. Mr. Parker's health had not been good for some time past, but he had been confined to his bed but a short time; he will be buried at Clarksburg to-day. The deceased was about fifty-five years of age and unmarried. He was, some ten or fifteen years ago one of our most popular and efficient river clerks, for a number of years on the Portsmouth and Cincinnati packets. After quitting the river he located at Maysville and was for some years in the employ of T. K. Ball & Son, at that place, acting in the capacity of book-keeper for that firm. He came here several years since, and has not been regularly employed during that time. Mace Parker was a whole-souled generous man, with a heart too big for his pocket-book. He had his faults, as who has not. Let them be buried with him.

Daring Daylight Robbery at Cincinnati.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 28, 1882.—One of the most daring and unparalleled robberies known was committed in broad daylight this morning between 9 and 10 o'clock, the victim being Clement Oskamp, the jeweler. He had on exhibition in the main hall of the exposition building many thousand dollars worth of diamonds. From one of the cases containing them were taken about $9,000 worth of the jewels during the temporary absence of the person watching them. Every one of the men employed in the building was at once put under arrest and the doors of the building locked.

A lady named Mrs. Burton was sitting opposite the cases on the south side gallery. She saw the proceedings, and thought that the thief was an employe in charge of the case. She says he was a young man about five feet seven inches in height, slender in build and sporting a blonde mustache. He wore a derby hat, black coat and light pair of pants. So far no definite clue to the thief has been found.

Riot at a Political Meeting—Four Men Killed.

CHARLESTON, S. C., September 22, 1882.—A special to the News and Courier to-day from Lancaster says a political meeting was held yesterday, and addressed by Col. Cash. About the close of the meeting a difficulty arose at the stand between a white man and a colored man, which resulted in the former being wounded in the head by a blow with a stick or stone. At this time two or three pistol shots were fired near the stand, but no one was hurt. Soon after a large procession of colored men on horseback came upon the streets.

One of the number, having a large pistol buckled to his body, the negro drew the pistol, pointed it at the white man and said, "There's the d—d rascal who did the shooting." The white man gave him the lie and the colored man fired at him. Immediately several shots were fired by white men and the colored man fell dead. Indiscriminate shooting followed by whites and blacks, and three other colored men were killed and many wounded.

One of the James Gang.

PRINCETON, Ky., September 28.—Jim Cummins, the train robber, one of the most notorious members of the James gang, is safe in the Caldwell county jail. He was recognized, and word sent Governor Crittenden, of Missouri, who ordered his arrest, and has sent officers and requisition papers to take him to that State.

A new Connecticut poet, in a just published volume of poems, states:

"I met my darling on a day
Far out in a wild pasture;
Or overtook her, I might say,
By going rather faster."

THE house of Jacob Mower, on Cabin creek was burned last week, it is thought, by an incendiary. Mr. Mower's loss was about $300.

It is expected that the cars will be running on the Kentucky Central extension, south of Richmond, by the first of next January.

ADJACENT COUNTIES.

LEWIS COUNTY.

There were thirteen deaths at Vanceburg and in the neighborhood during August.

Courier: It seems to be little use to go the expense of sending troops to Catlettsburg to guard Neal and Craft, when the people are already holding secret meetings in order to be ready to give them a proper reception. The facts seem to be against these gentlemen, and resistance may result in some good soldiers getting hurt.

On Friday last Mrs. Clesta Jordan applied to Judge Fryer for a warrant for Dugan Knapp and Elisha Boyd, stating that on the night previous the two men named entered her house on the V. & K. pike, about four miles south of town; drew their revolvers and began shooting, not as she believes with the intention of hitting, but only to frighten her. They however knocked her son down with a pistol seized her and took from her $16 in money, and in doing so bruised her some and tore at most all her clothing off, and then departed. Both were arrested.

Mrs. A. C. Brewington has sold her handsome residence at Carlisle to Dr. Browning, of Sherrill, for $2,500.

Mercury: Peter L. Linville has cut his crop of six acres of tobacco that averaged fourteen hundred sticks to the acre; weight of tobacco on each stick not less than one and a half pounds, total per acre 2,100 pounds. This amount multiplied by, say ten or twelve cents per pound, will make the yield $200 to $250 per acre.

Mercury: The case of Mrs. Rickets versus the Knights of Honor was decided in favor of Mrs. Rickets. This is a case for $2,000 insurance on the life of the late Elder B. P. Rickets, who was a member of the order known as the Knights of Honor. He belonged to a lodge in this city and paid his assessments regularly to the proper officer, but at the same time the lodge here was suspended without his knowledge. His widow now claims that he paid in good faith, and that his money was received by the officer authorized to receive it. The case will be appealed.

CARRYING TOO MANY PASSENGERS.

Suits to Collect Penalties for Overloading Steamboats and Neglecting to Provide Life-Preservers.

Several suits of interest to steamboatmen in particular were filed in the United States District Court yesterday, all relating to violations of the navigation laws. The first of these is a suit begun by John C. Harper against John C. Hopkins, James Hatcher, W. O. B. Ratcliffe and R. M. Ferri, owners of the steamboat Mountain Girl. The plaintiff alleges that the Mountain Girl is a vessel duly enrolled and authorized to carry fifty-one passengers, and by special permit seventy-five additional; that on the 21st of September last, at the port of the Agricultural Fair Grounds of Mason county, Ky., the boat received 230 passengers and carried them from said port to Maysville, Ky., contrary to the statutes, whereby the defendants are liable to pay to the plaintiff the sum of $10 for each and every passenger carried unlawfully, together with $36, the passage money paid by said unlawfully carried passengers, making in all the sum of $1,376, for which sum and costs he asks judgment. Thos. J. Throop, for plaintiff.

Two more petitions, identical in allegations and date, were filed by the same plaintiff against W. W. Prather, the owner of the steamboat Katie Prather, claiming $1,440; and against M. B. and M. L. Brown, owners of the Clipper, claiming $3,075.

The United States files suit in the same court against John C. Power, owner of the Gretna Green, a vessel of over twenty tons burden, alleging that on the 21st of September, 1881, that boat towed two barges carrying a large number of passengers from Maysville to the fair grounds and return, and that the barges were not supplied with life preservers, axes, buckets, and yawl-boats, as prescribed by the board of supervising inspectors of steamboats under the laws of the United States, whereby the owner became liable to a penalty of $200 for each trip, or $400 for violation of section 442, revised statutes.

A similar suit is filed against W. W. Prather, owner of the Katie Prather, alleging that she towed one barge for passengers from the fair grounds to Maysville September 21, 1881, and that the barge was not provided with life preservers, &c., whereby the owner became liable to a penalty of $200.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain it effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER.

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan. 20, 1880.
DR. B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunch be found. Respectfully yours,
P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.
B. J. KENDALL & Co., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is a wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.

Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.
KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach a every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Enosburgh Falls, Vermont. 127d.

SCIENCE AND INDUSTRY.

—The light which falls upon the earth from the satellites of Mars is about equivalent to what a man's hand on which the sun shone at Washington would reflect to Boston.

—There has been a fair average catch of seals on Neah Bay and Quileute, Washington Territory, this season, but, owing to the advance in cost of catching, and decline in value in foreign markets, the season's business on the whole has been unprofitable.—Chicago Times.

—A valuable fiber called pita or bromelic grows wild in Honduras. It is said to be the strongest fiber known, and can be used, half and half, with silk or wool. Machinery has been made to prepare it for manufacturing purposes, and it is said to be worth, when ready for market, $1,000 a ton.

—Prof. Carlo Pavesi, an Italian, has produced a disinfectant which the medical papers of the Old World heartily commend. It is composed of chloride of lime, camphor and glycerine. The mixture can be used in all cases where phenic acid is now employed, and is less disagreeable, less irritating and less toxic than that acid.

—Diving for black pearls employs a large number of men and boats off the coast of Lower California. Traders supply the vessels and diving apparatus upon the stipulation that the pearls that are found are to be sold to them at specified rates. These jewels are of much beauty and highly prized. A year's production is worth on an average from $500,000 to $1,000,000.

—Straw has long been used for the manufacture of paper, and it is now made into lumber of any desired length and width. It holds nails as well as wood, and is susceptible of a higher finish and polish. Like papier-mache, it is waterproof, and can, therefore, be used for external as well as internal purposes. Samples resemble hardwood, nearly as dark as oak, but more dense in texture, and with a specific gravity one-fifth more than that of black walnut. It is cheaper than wood, and will in the future largely take its place in building.—Chicago Journal.

—The following is a cheap and simple non-conducting covering for steam pipes: Four parts of coal ashes, sifted through a riddle of four meshes to the inch, one part calcined plaster, one part flour, one part fine fire clay. Mix the ashes and the clay together to the thickness of thin mortar, in a mortar trough; mix the calcined plaster and flour together dry, and add to it the ashes and clay as you want to use it; put it on the pipes in two coats, according to the size of the pipes. For a six-inch pipe, put the first coat about 1 1/4 inch thick; the second coat should be about 1 1/2 inch thick. Afterward, finish with hard finish, same as applied to plastering in a room. It takes the above about two hours and a half to set on a hot pipe.—Germantown Telegraph.

—An engine giving off a total of sixty-horse power was found by the indicator diagrams to be using twenty-five-horse power to get rid of the exhaust steam from the cylinders, and had been working in this condition for years, the loss of so much power never having been even suspected till the indicator diagrams revealed it. Many engines are running in this country, close beside streams of water, and exhausting the steam into the air, when by the addition of a condensing apparatus, a large increase of power could be obtained, or a saving of fuel effected. In an engine taking steam at sixty pounds pressure, and cutting off at half a stroke, the gain of power by condensing would be about 32 1/2 per cent., of which 2 1/2 per cent. would be required to drive the air pumps.

—Mr. John Francis Clark, who at present sits in the judges' box at Epsom, and declares each year the winners of the Derby and Oaks, has occupied the post for thirty years. His father and grandfather held it before him. It has been in the family seventy-six years, and he will be succeeded by his son.
